THE JOURNAL

... is a new linguistic eJournal whose first issue on media linguistics appeared in September 2015.
... presents peer-reviewed innovative research in the broader field of applied linguistics not only in established journal articles but also in unconventional, creative and entertaining forms such as ...is thinking about..., 3-min-talk, infographic, or brainstorming.
... offers exactly 10 plus 1 contributions at a time on a broad range of current topics in linguistics.
... invites feedback on the contributions that appear as open-access files on the journal’s website 10plus1journal.com.
... offers a creative academic space that explicitly welcomes contributions not only from established scholars but also from students working on excellent papers.
... emphasises the importance of presenting research in a sophisticated and aesthetically appealing way for those who consider linguistic curiosity both part of a profession and a unique way of life.

CONTRIBUTION FORMATS

Journal Article
This rather traditional format invites reports on work-in-progress and completed studies, as well as sketches of planned research projects. Outstanding student papers are very welcome. Contributors may want to invite feedback by formulating questions still open to discussion. (up to 9,000 words)

Review
Contributors are invited to submit reviews on recent publications within the field of the issue’s focus. Reviews may take more creative and/or provocative forms than usually accepted, resembling feuilletons. (up to 4,000 words)

... is thinking about ...
This essay-like genre is the right mould for ideas and trains of thought which do not fit the more traditional formats. (up to 2,000 words)

Brainstorming
This format allows for the discovery of objects and aspects of linguistic research and enables contributors to express rather spontaneous impressions associated with concrete communicative samples or theoretical assumptions. Brainstorms may consist of a double page, with snippets of ideas, quotations etc. grouped around a topic or problem situated in the centre, but also take longer essayistic forms. (from a few lines to 2,000 words)

Dialogue
This genre comprises (written) conversations between two or more scholars. Dialogues can be an actual exchange of ideas among scholars put into writing. They can also be fictional, with one author assembling established researchers to an imagined debate based on their writings. (up to 9,000 words)

Infographic
Infographics contribute to the growing demand for complex visualisations in linguistics. There will be a specific focus on visualising theoretical models.

3-min-talk
Contributors are invited to submit video recordings in which they sketch a central idea in no more than 3-5 minutes.

Comments
Readers are invited to comment on journal contributions. Selected comments will appear in the follow-up issue as well as on the journal website.
CALL FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

Issue #3 | The Linguistics of Politics

The Linguistics of Politics is the topic of 10plus1’s third issue. This vast field of applied linguistics traditionally encompasses the language of politicians, political parties, institutions and movements from a lexical, pragmatic, and text linguistic point of view (cf. Schröter & Carius 2012; Niehr 2014; Girnth 2015). In recent years, the focus has been extended to aspects of campaigns and campaigning (cf. Pappert 2011; Trent et al. 2011), political frame and framing (cf. Klein 2008; Wehling 2016), discourse linguistic questions (cf. Wengeler 2003; Spieß 2011; Roth 2015), computer-mediated communication, particularly with respect to social media (cf. Diekmannshenke 2013) and an increasing orientation towards citizens and recipients (e.g. Social TV, cf. Klemm & Michel 2014a). The latter shows that methodologically there is a perceptible shift from a pure focus on analyses of products to a holistic capture of production (cf. Wodak 2015), product and reception processes of political language and communication (cf. Klemm & Michel 2014b).

Issue #3 welcomes contributions of all formats (see p. 1) situated within the broad frame of the linguistics of politics. Papers may deal with specific aspects, or give an overview of a broader field of research. We also invite contributions focusing on theoretical and/or methodological issues.

Issue #3 will be guest-edited by Sascha Michel (Basel).

Kersten S. Roth (Düsseldorf/Zürich) will contribute the Opener.

Sascha Michel is research assistant at Basel University. He studied German and English at Mainz University before joining Koblenz University where he works on a thesis on political communication in social media. His research interests include political communication, multimodal communication, media linguistics (and culture) and word formation.

Issue #4 Multimodal Linguistics will be guest-edited by Jana Pflaeging (Halle/Salzburg) and Martin Siefkes (Chemnitz).
